

33. In the end, Exadel continued to deliver agreed to builds late and with defects that remained unfixed and without a team dedicated to delivering the Project:

I'm concerned that the size/makeup of the team isn't sufficient to deal with the number of outstanding issues. We currently have over 50 open defects/CRs in the system, and have never had fewer than 20.

(c) Exadel Sticks IntraLinks with Only
Certain Components of the Project,
Which Themselves were Completely
Unusable

34. Those components that Exadel were ultimately able to deliver were completely unusable. Indeed, most of the "builds" delivered failed to work or meet IntraLinks' quality control reviews, and all of the builds failed to comply with IntraLinks' internal standards and codes for computing.

35. For example, the scroll bar, when tested, loaded the same runs over and over again – a major performance/scalability problem for IntraLinks' system. The experience was even worse when using the mouse scroll.

36. Indeed, long past the due date for delivery, IntraLinks was forced to reject whole builds:

We are rejecting build R14. It breaks existing expand/collapse grid functionality and includes no defect fixes critical for an alpha [release].

(d) Exadel Fails and Refuses to Mitigate the Defects

37. Even after Exadel failed timely to deliver a usable version of the Project, IntraLinks offered to continue to try and work with Exadel in an attempt to mitigate its loss. In that connection, in mid-May, 2007, IntraLinks requested that Exadel dedicate full time resources to attempt to address the numerous and repeat problems with the Program's functionality.

Exadel refused.

38. In addition, Exadel failed to offer any plan to retrieve the Project, and refused to provide to, or share with, IntraLinks any data reflecting its internal test results for each of the builds it had delivered; it also failed to provide IntraLinks with user manuals and other documents discussing how the software worked and methods for troubleshooting problems with the software.

Something has changed/happened on their end regarding Olga. She has become much less responsive recently, and that is adding to the difficulty. During the time when our connectivity to their JIRA system was down, I had asked her more than once to send a list of the defects for the RII build so I could better track their progress – but it was never done. I feel the same has happened with other requests for info or feedback that I've sent her recently.

I've requested to have daily Live Meeting conference calls/desktop sharing in order to help expedite the knowledge transfer and troubleshooting process.

Since we've had connectivity problems to the CVS server (same as JIRA issues), I've repeatedly asked them to send me the code; it has not happened yet.

39. In the end, and as a result, IntraLinks was unable to salvage and work with any part of the software it received from Exadel. IntraLinks was forced, on extraordinarily short notice and at great expense, to engage another computer consulting group, to recreate the features of the Project.

AS AND FOR A FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION
(Breach of Contract)

40. IntraLinks repeats and realleges each and every allegation contained in paragraphs 1 through 39 of the Complaint as if fully set forth at length herein.

41. IntraLinks and Exadel are each parties to various written agreements including the Agreement and Statements of Work governing the development and delivery of the Project. These agreements constitute valid and binding agreements.

42. Under the terms of the parties' written agreements, Exadel agreed, among other things, to (1) assign a team of clearly identified and highly skilled software developers to work on the Project; (2) to complete the development and delivery of carefully defined components of the Project by clearly identified and mutually agreed dates certain; (3) to prepare and deliver supporting instructional documents with the software components; and (4) to complete the developments and delivery of the Project for a carefully designed and mutually agreed upon price.

43. At all times, IntraLinks performed its duties pursuant to the terms of the agreements with Exadel.

44. Exadel breached the express terms of its written agreements with IntraLinks by, among other things, reassigning members of the Project team at critical points in the development process; failing and neglecting to provide sufficient resources to complete the Project in a timely and competent manner; failing to deliver components by the deadlines agreed upon by the parties; failing to provide required and necessary documentation; and delivering only certain components materially different from, and inferior to, the specifications agreed upon by the parties.

AS AND FOR A SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
(Breach of Express Warranty)

45. IntraLinks repeats and realleges each and every allegation contained in paragraphs 1 through 44 of the Complaint as if fully set forth at length herein.

46. The Agreement contains an express warranty for the software to be provided to IntraLinks for the Project. Section 1.2.1 of the Agreement provides:

All Deliverables, and IntraLinks' obligation to pay for such Deliverables, shall be subject to IntraLinks' review and acceptance of such Deliverables, such acceptance not to be unreasonably withheld. In the event that IntraLinks rejects any Deliverables, IntraLinks will inform Contractor of the reasons for such rejection, and Contractor will use commercially reasonable efforts to promptly modify such Deliverables in accordance with IntraLinks' instructions and to redeliver such Deliverables to IntraLinks in accordance with the provisions of this section.

Section 4, entitled "Representations and Warranties," also provides, in part, that "Contractor hereby represents and warrants that it . . . (b) will perform the services in a professional and workmanlike manner."

47. Exadel breached the express warranty contained in the Agreement by, among other ways, delivering components to IntraLinks that contained numerous and significant programming errors and deficiencies; delivering components that were materially different from, and inferior to, the specification contained in the SOWs entered into by the parties; failing to deliver associated documents with the Project components; and failing and refusing to remedy defects timely identified by IntraLinks.

AS AND FOR A THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION (Breach of the UCC's Implied Warranties of Merchantability and Fitness for a Particular Purpose)

48. IntraLinks repeats and realleges each and every allegation contained in paragraphs 1 through 47 of the Complaint as if fully set forth at length herein.

49. The Agreement specifies that it shall be governed by New York law. The Agreement and SOWs entered by the parties do not contain disclaimers of implied warranties.

50. Exadel breached the implied warranties of merchantability and fitness for a particular purpose created by sections 2-314 and 2-315 of New York's Uniform Commercial Code by, among other things, failing to deliver the components of the Project that would pass without objection in the trade under the contract description; failing to deliver components that were fit for the ordinary purpose for which they were to be used; and, knowing that IntraLinks was relying on Exadel's skill and judgment to furnish the components for a particular and defined purpose, failing to deliver components fit for such purpose.

AS AND FOR A FOURTH CAUSE OF ACTION
(Breach of the Implied Covenant of Due Care)

51. IntraLinks repeats and realleges each and every allegation contained in paragraphs 1 through 50 of the Complaint as if fully set forth at length herein.

52. By reason of the parties' agreements and the common law, Exadel owed IntraLinks an obligation to exercise due care in developing and delivering the Project and all of its components.

53. Exadel breached its obligation to exercise due care by, among other things, reassigning members of the development team and/or failing and/or neglecting to make knowledgeable members available to IntraLinks during crucial points of the development process; removing key members of the development team from the Project at crucial points in time; failing to devote adequate time, resources, and attention to the Project; failing to deliver the Project components in a timely manner; failing to cure the numerous and obvious defects that plagued the Project components delivered; and failing to develop and deliver supporting documentation for the Project components delivered.

AS AND FOR A FIFTH CAUSE OF ACTION (Breach of the Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing)

54. IntraLinks repeats and realleges each and every allegation contained in paragraphs 1 through 53 of the Complaint as if fully set forth at length herein.

55. By reason of the parties' agreements and the common law, Exadel owed IntraLinks an obligation of good faith and fair dealing in developing and delivering the Project and all of its component parts,

56. Exadel breached its obligation of good faith and fair dealing by, among other things, reassigning members of the development team and/or failing and/or neglecting to make knowledgeable members available to IntraLinks during crucial points of the development process; removing key members of the development team from the Project at crucial points in time; failing to devote adequate time, resources, and attention to the Project; failing to deliver the Project components in a timely manner; failing to cure the numerous and obvious defects that plagued the Project components delivered; and failing to develop and deliver supporting documentation for the Project components delivered.

AS AND FOR A SIXTH CAUSE OF ACTION
(Negligent Performance)

57. IntraLinks repeats and realleges each and every allegation contained in paragraphs 1 through 56 of the Complaint as if fully set forth at length herein.

58. By reason of the parties agreements and the common law, Exadel owed IntraLinks a duty to exercise reasonable care in developing and delivering the Project components.

59. Exadel failed to exercise reasonable care by, among other things, reassigning members of the development team and/or failing and/or neglecting to make knowledgeable members available to IntraLinks during crucial points of the development process; removing key members of the development team from the Project at crucial points in time; failing to devote adequate time, resources, and attention to the Project; failing to deliver the Project components in a timely manner; failing to cure the numerous and obvious defects that plagued the Project components delivered; and failing to develop and deliver supporting documentation for the Project components delivered.

WHEREFORE, IntraLinks respectfully demands judgment against Exadel awarding it:

- (a) damages of at least $250,000.00, plus interest, attributable to the amount paid by IntraLinks to Exadel;
- (b) damages in an amount to be fixed at trial, plus interest, attributable to the amounts IntraLinks paid to other software developers to develop a similar software program;
- (c) damages in an amount to be fixed at trial, plus interest, attributable to lost profits, lost business opportunities, and related expenses, proximally caused by the wrongful actions of Exadel; and
- (d) such other and further relief as to this Court seems just and proper.

FIRST AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

60. Plaintiff's Complaint fails to state a claim upon which relief may be granted.

SECOND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

61. Any delays, increased costs and/or other problems with respect to the production and delivery of the software were due to the acts and/or omissions of Plaintiff.

THIRD AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

62. Plaintiff's claims are barred by the doctrines of waiver and estoppel.

FOURTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

63. Plaintiff breached paragraph 3 of the Agreement by disclosing confidential information in its Complaint without Defendant's written consent.

FIFTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

64. Plaintiff has failed to mitigate its damages.

SIXTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

65. Plaintiff's claims are barred by the equitable doctrine of unclean hands.

COUNTERCLAIMS

66. The Counterclaims set forth herein by Exadel, Inc. ("Exadel") seek to recover for services which it performed for IntraLinks, Inc. ("IntraLinks") at its request but for which IntraLinks has refused pay. In or about March 2007, after Exadel had substantially completed the work that was required by the Agreement and the SOWs, IntraLinks approached Exadel and asked that it assist IntraLinks in integrating the software which Exadel had developed for IntraLinks (the "Integration Work") and that Exadel provide IntraLinks with additional features to complement the software which Exadel had already delivered to IntraLinks ("Additional Features") (the Integration Work and Additional Features are collectively referred to hereafter as the "New Work"). Since the New Work was not covered by the Agreement or SOWs, Exadel requested that a new contract be executed between the parties. IntraLinks promised that a new contract would be executed and it requested Exadel in the meantime to commence the New Work. Relying upon this promise and the understanding between the parties that IntraLinks would pay for the New Work, Exadel began the Integration Work and the development of the Additional Features for IntraLinks. The parties agreed that the New Work would be performed during April, May and June of 2007. Despite the agreement between the parties, IntraLinks has failed and refused to make the required payments for the New Work which Exadel performed. Furthermore, despite the parties' agreement that the New Work would be performed through June 2007, on or about May 30, 2007 IntraLinks terminated the agreement, without notice and without excuse or justification.

FIRST COUNTERCLAIM

(Breach of Contract – Goods and Services Sold and Delivered)

67. Counterclaimant repeats and realleges each and every allegation set forth in paragraphs 66 above, as if fully set forth herein.

68. Counterclaimant Exadel is a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of California, with its principal place of business at 1850 Gateway Boulevard, Suite 1080, Concord, California. Exadel is in the business of providing specialty software programs and related computer consulting services.

69. Upon information and belief, counterclaim-defendant IntraLinks is a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of Delaware, with its principal place of business at 1372 Broadway, New York, New York. Upon information and belief, IntraLinks is engaged in the business of providing online document sharing services between and among businesses.

70. This Court has jurisdiction over this action pursuant to Rule 13 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and 28 U.S.C. §1332(a)(2) because the parties are of diverse citizenship and the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest and costs, exceeds $75,000.00.

71. In or about March 2007, Exadel and IntraLinks entered into an oral agreement wherein Exadel agreed to perform Integration Work for IntraLinks and develop Additional Features for Intralinks at discounted rates (the “New Agreement”).

72. Exadel requested that the parties enter into a written agreement to memorialize the parties’ understanding regarding the New Work which Exadel agreed to provide IntraLinks.

73. IntraLinks indicated that it would prepare a written agreement, but requested in the meantime that Exadel commence the New Work.

74. Exadel agreed to perform the services upon the promise and understanding that IntraLinks would pay for those services, irrespective of the existence of a written agreement.

75. The term of the New Agreement was from April 1, 2007 through June 30, 2007.

76. During the months of April and May, 2007 Exadel performed the services requested by IntraLinks.

77. IntraLinks accepted Exadel's services, while assuring it that a written agreement would be executed shortly. No written agreement was ever presented by IntraLinks.

78. On or about May 30, 2007, without excuse or justification, IntraLinks terminated the New Agreement, without notice, despite the fact that the parties had agreed that the New Agreement would continue until the end of June 2007.

79. Relying upon IntraLinks' promise that the agreement would be for a three-month period, Exadel leased an apartment in Boston for one of its employees so that he could relocate to work on-site for IntraLinks. Exadel was required to pay $7,775.00 for the apartment lease, but was unable to cancel the lease when IntraLinks unexpectedly terminated the New Agreement.

80. In addition, Exadel spent $348.80 on an airline ticket for its employee to fly to Boston on May 8, 2007, so he could be available to IntraLinks through June 2007.

81. IntraLinks accepted all of the services which Exadel provided to it throughout April and May, 2007.

82. On or about April 25, 2007, Exadel sent IntraLinks an invoice for services rendered during the month of April, 2007 at the discounted amount of $30,000.00.

83. On or about June 7, 2007, Exadel sent IntraLinks an invoice for services rendered during the month of May, 2007 at the discounted amount of $30,697.

84. Despite due demand, therefor, IntraLinks has failed to pay for the services which were provided pursuant to the parties' agreement.

85. Since IntraLinks has failed to timely pay the discounted sum of $60,697 for Exadel's services and thereby breached the New Agreement, Exadel is entitled to its usual and customary rates for such services, in the amount of $72,185.00.

86. IntraLink's failure to pay for the aforementioned services constitutes a breach of the New Agreement.

87. By reason of the foregoing breach of contract, Exadel is entitled to damages in the amount of $80,308.80, plus interest.

SECOND COUNTERCLAIM
(Unjust enrichment)

88. Counterclaimant repeats and realleges each and every allegation set forth in paragraphs 66 through 87 above, as if fully set forth herein.

89. IntraLinks received a benefit as a result of the Integration Work and Additional Features which were provided to it by Exadel.

90. IntraLinks has failed and refused to pay for the reasonable value of such services, despite due demand therefor and, consequently, IntraLinks has been unjustly enriched in the amount of $80,308.80, plus interest.

THIRD COUNTERCLAIM
(Breach of Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing)

91. Counterclaimant repeats and realleges each and every allegation set forth in paragraphs 66 through 90 above, as if fully set forth herein.

92. Implicit in the New Agreement between the parties is an obligation of good faith and fair dealing, which requires each party to refrain from any act or omission that would injure or destroy the right of the other party to receive the fruits and benefits of their agreement.

93. IntraLinks lured Exadel into continuing to perform Integration Work and the development of Additional Features and devoting manpower and resources for the benefit of IntraLinks by, among other things, continuing to promise to pay for this work. However, upon information and belief, IntraLinks never intended to pay for these services but instead was planning to terminate Exadel and replace it with another computer consulting firm.

94. By its acts and omissions, described more particularly above, IntraLinks knowingly, willfully, intentionally and maliciously failed to fulfill its implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing implicit in the New Agreement with Exadel. By reason of the forgoing breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing, Exadel is entitled to damages against IntraLinks in an amount to be determined at trial.

WHEREFORE, Defendant Exadel demands judgment dismissing the Complaint of IntraLinks and judgment against IntraLinks on its counterclaims as follows:

(a) On the First Counterclaim, damages in the amount of $80,308.80 plus interest;

(b) On the Second Counterclaim, damages in the amount of $80,308.80, plus interest;

(c) On the Third Counterclaim, damages in an amount to be determined at trial; and

(d) On all counterclaims, reasonable attorneys' fees, the costs and disbursements of this action and such other, further and different relief as to the Court seems just and proper.
